Job Title:

Sales Account Manager

Location:

London, United Kingdom

Reference Code:

Sales Account Manager, UK

For more than 30 years CD-adapco has been one of the world-leading software companies for numerical engineering simulation with its STAR-CCM+ product family. We develop and licence professional engineering software solutions for our customers from 29 different offices in over 17 countries around the world.

As part of our continuing growth in the UK, we are looking for a new, enthusiastic, highly motivated candidate to fill a vacancy for:

Sales Account Manager, UK /Ireland

The selected candidate will be a part of our UK sales team, based in our London office in Hammersmith, West London, W6. The person will be ideally based in London/South East area but all UK-based candidates will be considered for the post. The role:

- Working initially to New Business software targets and then on completion of probation to New and Renewal Business software targets in a defined UK/Ireland sales region.
- Representing all CD-adapco software products and services in sales region.
- Focus on identifying and winning new name clients by identifying their business and technical requirements through the application of our established professional sales approach.
- Responsibility for preparing and finalising business offers and agreements.
- Participation in business negotiations, product presentations, trade fairs, conferences and workshops.
- Moderate degree of UK travel and some European travel will be involved including regular trips within sales region(s) and UK and other CD-adapco offices.

Your Profile:

- University degree in engineering or science-based discipline.
- Fluent English language skills are a prerequisite for the role.
- A successful sales track record in selling engineering simulation software, with special interest given to software sales experience in CFD or FEA/FEM software, ideally within the Aerospace and Defence sector.
- You should have a motivated personality with a keen sense of selling, negotiation skills and powers of persuasion.

- The successful candidate will receive a competitive base salary (depending on experience), commission and bonus plan, company pension plan and car allowance.

Overall, we are looking for a high calibre successful sales candidate with enthusiasm, drive and passion who would like to play a key role in shaping the success of our company. CD-adapco's culture is made up of a strong team-oriented international atmosphere which offers excellent future prospects within our innovative and expansion-strong team.
